

TAFT'S ADDRESS WAS A SUCCESS

HIS LINCOLN DAY TALK IN NEW YORK PLEASES BUSINESS MEN.

IS GENERALLY APPROVED

Believed That It Has Done Much to Clarify the Situation and Explain Administration's Attitude.

New York, Feb. 14.—President Taft's Lincoln Day speech here has been received with the greatest enthusiasm by men prominent in financial, business and political circles.

The general trend of comment is that the speech was candid, clear and convincing, and that it will do much to inspire confidence in all business circles.

Taft's address was really an explanation of the administration's attitude on many matters of legislation that has caused much adverse criticism. He said in part as follows:

Answers Wall Street.

"No one has a motive as strong as the administration in power to cultivate and strengthen business confidence and business prosperity," declared the president. "But it does rest with the national government to enforce the law, and if the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present method of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business, and they must be changed to conform to the law. There was no promise on the part of the republicans to change the anti-trust law except to strengthen it, or to authorize monopoly and a suppression of competition and the control of prices, and those who look forward to such a change cannot now visit the responsibility for their mistake on innocent persons."

Law Must Be Enforced.

"Of course the government at Washington can be counted on to enforce the law in the way best calculated to prevent a destruction of public confidence in business, but it must enforce the law."

The president declared there were signs which many construed to indicate that the republican majority in congress might be replaced by a democratic majority. The cause he asserted to be discussion in the republican party arising out of differences of opinion in regard to the rules in the house and to the personnel of the leadership in the senate.

Answers "Panic Cry."

"I want only one word," he said. "From time to time attacks are made upon the administration on the ground that its policy tends to create a panic in Wall street and to disturb business. All I have to say upon that subject is this: That certainly no one responsible for a government like ours would foolishly run amuck in business and destroy values and confidence just for the pleasure of doing so."

As to the plans regarding improvements in the anti-trust and interstate commerce law, the president reiterated the views he held down in his special message to congress January 7.

Campaign of Education.

He declared there existed a growing tendency to the assertion of individual opinion and purpose at the expense of party discipline. The movement was toward factionalism and small groups.

All this, Mr. Taft said, should be forgotten in furtherance of the one great aim—party success. To this end, he asserted, a campaign of education was required.

"I am far from saying the republican party is perfect," declared the president, and then he gave a warning that party insubordination should be punished.

The high cost of living, Mr. Taft asserted, primarily was due to the "increase in the measure of value of gold and, in some measure, to combinations in restraint of trade."

President Taft eulogized Theodore Roosevelt and the Roosevelt policies and said that before the former president departed on his African lion hunt he had put public opinion in "a condition to bring about the reform needed to elude his policies and to make them permanent in the form of enacted law."

Hughes and Fort Speak.

Gov. Hughes and Gov. Fort, who were the other principal speakers, declared the republican party must live in the future, and each advised the party to follow the lead of President Taft. Speaker Cannon sent a letter of regret, containing a toast to the president.

Gov. Hughes made a sensation by announcing his belief that President Taft would be re-nominated and re-elected.

SKI TOURNAMENT AT STOUGHTON SUNDAY

Large Crowds Attracted by the Unusual Spectacle—Clever Work by Contestants.

Stoughton, Wis., Feb. 14.—Carl Solberg of this city, international champion of Norway and France, yesterday distinguished himself in the ski tournament held here when he won one event, took second in two others and figured in the winning teams of two more.

Solberg won the longest standing jump contest regardless of character with a leap of 95 1/2 feet. Erling Landvik of Stoughton was second in the same event with a leap of 95 1/2 feet, while Olaf Hagren was third with a jump of 87 feet.

Solberg took second in the free-form all sides with 220 1/2 points. He made jumps of 91 1/2 and 92 feet. The event was won by Erling Landvik of the club, who jumped 95 and 96 1/2 feet and scored 35 out of a possible forty points. His total score was 227 1/2 points. Olaf Hagren was third with 202 points, having jumped 82 1/2 and 87 1/2 feet. Olaf Kraby took fourth prize with a total of 139 1/2 points. He jumped 81 and 82 1/2 feet.

Solberg and Landvik won the twin jump with a simultaneous leap off the platform of 90 feet. Christensen and Hagren took second with a 78-foot jump.

The feature of the afternoon was a daring triple jump in which three men descended the steep incline in parallel holding each other by the arms. Solberg, Landvik and Olaf Hagren jumped 78 feet in this event. The triple jump is a rare attempt in America and has not been seen more than twice before in this country. Solberg stood on landing and continued in his recovery and turn, but the others fell.

The longest jump of the day was made by Erling Landvik, who jumped 100 feet in the slide for longest distance regardless of standing or falling. Solberg was second with a leap of 95 1/2 feet, while Smithberg took third on a 93 1/2-foot leap.

A crowd of about 800 attended the tournament, which started at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The incline was about 75 feet higher than the top of the hill on which it was built. A sloping slide of about 150 feet stopped abruptly with a 10-foot high jump.

Weather conditions were ideal for both spectators and competitors, but the slides proved difficult with their sides easily covered to be unwilling to slide easily. Gladstone, one of the club's best skiers, was unable to compete, having been debilitated by colds. The club at Duluth on Saturday and yesterday at Colorado, Minn., where ski tournaments were held.

Prof. Robert C. Clapham gave the host of a series of four talks yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. on practical saving, as it applies to the working man's prosperity and happiness. He urged all young men to keep a little ahead of expenses and says it ordinarily can be done. He says that it is self-protection that a man have at least a little money in hand. He said that in cities where there were savings banks it made it easy for men to lay by a little of their earnings from every pay check and that they should do it. Society is getting to think less and less of a man who cannot pay his way. It will take place and sacrifice, but it is possible for the uneducated man to accumulate something. Prof. Clapham is an authority on sociological subjects and his series of talks have been valuable to those who have heard him.

AFTER A CHASE OF 6,000 MILES

6,000 CROWNS EFFORTS OF LYNN, MASS., POLICE.

MURDER SUSPECT CAPTURED

Vahan Nalbadian Is On His Way Back To America To Answer For Killing Of Minus Monian.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Feb. 14.—Two officers of the Massachusetts State police have left Boston for Bucharest, Roumania, to bring back Vahan Nalbadian, a young Armenian who has been sought for several months, charged with the murder of Minus Monian in Lynn last summer. After a chase of 6,000 miles Nalbadian was arrested last week in Roumania.

The chase for Nalbadian began last July, after he had been indicted for murder by the Essex county grand jury. The police traced him first to New York, thence to England, and then through Germany. Only by jumping from one city to another did the young Armenian escape arrest in Germany. On several occasions foreign officials, acting through instructions from Lynn, were ready to lay their hands on him only to find he had disappeared.

For several months Nalbadian kept working south through Europe. The police lost track of him, and then located him at Alexandria, Egypt. Through an acquaintance of the Lynn chief of police, who had been in Alexandria, the chief got in communication with a mission priest in that city and persuaded him to keep Lynn informed as to Nalbadian's movements.

The priest followed Nalbadian to Siliatria in Bulgaria. Here Nalbadian evidently thought himself safe, for the police learned that he had started a small clothing store there. The Lynn police were beginning to despair of again getting track of the murder suspect when they received a cablegram stating that he had been arrested, while visiting Alexandria, Roumania. The Massachusetts authorities lost no time in getting extradition papers and despatching two officers on the long journey to bring back Nalbadian to answer to the charge of murder.

A peculiar feature of the case is that the evidence against Nalbadian is almost wholly circumstantial. Monian, the victim of the tragedy, met his death in a Lynn rooming house in which both he and Nalbadian lived. Monian's body was found in a trunk in his room with a bullet wound in the heart. Nalbadian was missing. The police found that Monian had had several hundred dollars, which also disappeared.

As a result of their first investigation into the death of Monian the police came to the opinion that the man's death was accidental and that Nalbadian had sought to hide the body and then fled through fear. The men were friends, and had been seen chatting pleasantly shortly before the tragedy. Nalbadian had a good character in Lynn, but the police subsequently learned that he was a member of an Armenian secret society and they believe that this may have had something to do with the alleged murder. If robbery did not furnish the motive, one of the mysterious features of the case was the fact that the bullet which killed Monian has never been found. It was neither in his body nor in the room.

PLAN CARNIVAL AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Basketball Contests Will Attract Best Teams in the State for Meet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 14.—The great outdoor basketball carnival ever held in the northwest will take place here during the three days of March 11 and 12. Entries thus far received include sixteen teams, embracing the leading preparatory school boys of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and other states. Eight teams have entered from Wisconsin high schools and eight representative schools of other states.

Two championship titles will be contended for, the championship of Wisconsin and the championship of the middle west. Suitable cups will be awarded as trophies, not only to the final winners, but to a large number of the competing teams showing their relative prowess as demonstrated in the race for the championship.

Among the prominent teams entered are one from Ottumwa, Iowa; one from Waterloo, Iowa; a team from Fremont, Ill.; Dubuque, Iowa; one from Grand Rapids, Mich.; and also the famous Western West High school team of Cleveland, Ohio.

The problem of expense has been solved. This threatened to prevent the tournament being held, but the Greek letter fraternities have come to the aid of Acting Athletic Director Ten Eyck by offering to care each for one team. As there are more than a score of these lodges, even a larger entry list than now on hand can be cared for. A fraternity will house a team of players with manager and substitutes, making no charge for the service; and also showing the visitors social amenities as may be possible during the meet. This will greatly reduce the cost of bringing the teams here.

ANTI-SALOON FORCES ARE PLANNING FOR CAMPAIGNS

SERVICES HELD IN MANY OF THE CHURCHES ON SUNDAY.

UNION SERVICES WERE HELD

At Presbyterian Church Last Evening—Possibility of Spring Campaign in Janesville.

Yesterday was "Anti-Saloon Day" among the various Protestant churches of the city, and the day was observed by special services in the churches, occupying the pulpits in the morning. In the evening there were union services.

At the Methodist church in the morning, Rev. A. D. Cox of Milwaukee, field secretary of the cause, delivered the address. The text of his talk was "Quit you, like men; be strong."

"We have a great reason to be encouraged because of the interest taken on the part of the Christian people against the saloons. There is a tremendous interest in Wisconsin among the Christian people and the temperance forces concerning this great question."

"Quit you, like men; be strong. We need strong men today. In the churches, in the church societies, the Sunday school, and especially in the temperance movement, men who have convictions and are ready to stand by them are the men who are most desired."

"We do have great opposition from the liquor forces. There are two lines of opposition. One is the organized liquor traffic, with mints of money behind the movement. They are spending lots of money to fight the temperance movement, but it is a question as to how much longer they can keep on spending as they are now. The second line of opposition is the indifference of the people. I am glad to say that this is growing less. Men are coming to the front more and expressing their opinions on the question more freely. The temperance movement—a legalized fight against the liquor traffic—is going forward by leaps and bounds."

"The bible is a message from God to his people on earth. But closely akin to the message is the temperance movement and I fail to see how a man can preach the gospel of Christ and not strike a tremendous blow against the liquor traffic. In a while, I charge the saloons with causing a large part of the misery and degradation we find in the world."

"What ought to be the attitude of the Christian minister to this institution? We all know that the ministers should put forth every effort to put out the saloons that try to destroy the church."

"I am not here to say anything against the saloon-keeper nor the beer-drinker. I consider them as fallen brothers and it is my duty to get my arms around those fellows and bring them to Christ. If I had my way I would take every saloon-keeper and by singing and praying bring them to Jesus, take them out of the business they are in and put them somewhere where they can do something for the good of their fellow men. I am not here to say anything against the saloon-keeper, but rather to denounce the business in which he is engaged."

"The church has gone into the work of exterminating the saloons and the Anti-Saloon League is the organized movement of the federated churches. We ought to know something of the situation, what is being done, and the outlook for the future at the present time."

"The speakers for the saloons and the papers issued by the saloon interests say that the temperance movement is decreasing, but I say that it is not. There are nine states in the Union where saloons do not exist and five of them went 'dry' during the last two years. Despite all statements of the liquor speakers, especially David Rose and some others, or of the liquor papers, to the contrary, the law is being enforced in those nine states as well as any law on the statute books. The southern states, where the saloons have been banished are determined that they shall remain banished forever. The states in the south are all going to exterminate the saloons in the next five years."

"At the convention of the Anti-Saloon League in Chicago there were some southern speakers, among them that gifted and talented orator, Seymour Wright. Said Mr. Wright: 'You people of the north need not lose any sleep worrying that the saloons are coming back into the south. The whole south is determined to destroy the saloons.'

"I also heard George Stuart, a powerful man and an earnest worker for temperance. He said: 'The people of the south have voted out the saloons forever. There will not be a 'wet' state in the south inside of five years. The people of the north came to the south and camped, fought and died on southern battlefields to help get rid of slavery. Now of the south are coming north to help you wipe out the saloons.'

"We have all kinds of testimony that the prohibition laws in the 'dry' states are being enforced as well as the other laws. Why? Because of the sentiment of the people demanding that the laws be better enforced than before."

"The prohibition movement is coming along this way. In Indiana and Ohio it is being pushed vigorously. Old Kentucky is showing a marvelous change. They have hung Kentucky on a clothes line and out of nineteen counties there are only four where liquor is sold at all, and four counties in which liquor is sold in certain cities. Three-fourths of the great state of Texas is now 'dry'."

"One of the most difficult states in which the Anti-Saloon workers have been working is our own state of Wisconsin. Wisconsin, with her two millions of people in seventy-one counties, a great state, one of the greatest in the Union, yet it has had the blighting and mill-dewing effect of the saloon traffic. One of the most beautiful cities in the world, the metropolis of the state, Milwaukee, has won a reputation as the beer-making center and cannot shake the evil name. Yet it cannot be said of Milwaukee that it

Chief of Police Appleby has received communications from the Welch Grape Juice Co. of Westfield, N. Y., and Chief of Police J. H. Webber of La Crosse, which will be of interest to local hotel managers and dealers in second-hand goods.

The first one states that a man representing himself as P. H. Welch has operated during the past few days in Owensboro, Ky., Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Marion, and El. Wayne, Indiana, securing over $100 on counterfeit Welch Grape Juice Co. checks, cashed at hotels, and asks that a lookout for the individual be kept hereabouts.

The second relates to the theft of a large quantity of underwear from the Starnum & Halberg clothing store at La Crosse on the night of Feb. 11. A light gray overcoat, two gray A. G. Spaulding & Bro. sweater jackets, two dozen four-hand ties, a lot of silk mufflers, 20 dozen kid gloves with initials "D. P." on the buttons, some of them silk lined, 1 dozen pairs of black and green silk handkerchiefs, a lot of cuff buttons, stick-pins, and other merchandise, and three tan suit cases, were included in the loot. Officers are requested to arrest anyone attempting to unload the loot in this city.

THE NAMES STERLING DE LAVAL

The name DE LAVAL on a cream separator stands for much the same thing as the name STERLING on silverware. It means the highest standard of merit and quality in both cases.

There is the difference, however, that in the case of silverware the name STERLING signifies quality higher than many users can afford to pay for notwithstanding their desire to have it, so they must be content with plated ware or some cheaper substitute; while in the case of cream separators the STERLING quality is within the reach of every buyer and costs no more than the plated or other inferior imitations, when actual capacity is taken into consideration.

There is likewise the all important difference that while the substitute for silver may answer the purpose almost as well as genuine STERLING in the case of cream separators the imitation and substitute WASTE in quantity and quality of product every time they are used, and enough in one way or another to pay for the DE LAVAL yearly, while the DE LAVAL lasts for years after the imitation or substitute separator will have been worn out and cast aside.

Why then should any buyer of a cream separator be satisfied with anything less than STERLING quality?

An Important Open Letter

We have just closed our inventory. Our great stocks are filled with fresh, new goods characteristically bright and smart. We are entering into the new 1910 season with the same freshness and enthusiasm that marked the opening year of our satisfactory business. We intend to make this year a banner year. We purpose that the public shall have an opportunity to know our goods thoroughly. Our daily announcements will keep you posted on our bargains and give you bright and interesting information about our goods. The spirit of enterprise pervades this store always. We do not intend to see a sleepy day, an idle hour or a wasted minute in the seasons opening wide before us.

And because cash buying and cash selling always have been and always will be the essentials of true economy, we have conducted this store upon a cash basis in order to save money where the merchant buying on credit cannot save. And in turn we offer actual savings that cannot be obtained, under ordinary conditions, on goods of equal quality bought at a credit store.

We buy for cash from the Mill, The Factory, and Wholesaler, and because we buy for cash the choicest merchandise offered us at the closest figures; we buy more cheaply because we buy for two big stores at the same time—our Beloit and Janesville stores; we take all discounts on all our bills; we eliminate expensive book-keeping; we do not have to earn interest on money tied up in "charge accounts", we lose no money on bad accounts.

When you buy, do not merely "pay cash" but buy at the cash store, managed on cash basis, where cash buying means economical buying. Our merchandise bears one price, and nothing can ever induce us to price our goods a shade of variation from their real value. Every article sold, you may regard as warranted and you should always feel secure as to quality and price. Our business of 30 years standing has been built upon goodness-in-the-goods and fairness in merchandising.

LICENSE OR NO LICENSE

Several of the city churches devoted last evening to a meeting devoted to discussing the no-license question. The principal speaker was one of the state organizers of the Anti-Saloon League. Six of these men are now working in the state and two of them spent yesterday in Janesville.

They report that the anti-saloon movement is making rapid progress throughout the state and that half the territory is practically dry now, while some 800 villages, towns and cities will vote on the question of license at the spring election.

Among the cities to vote are Madison and Beloit, with a fair prospect that the saloon will be voted out in both cities. Beloit should certainly be dry, for it is the notorious dumping ground for the hams of Rockford.

It would also be a good thing for Madison, where so many young men are subject to temptation. The state furnishes these boys an opportunity for an education, and it owes them protection from saloon influence.

One of the speakers stated yesterday that county option would be the leading issue in the next state campaign, and that if a law could be passed 35 counties would vote dry at the first opportunity.

Janesville may be obliged to wait for a county option law, although many people believe that the city would vote dry today if the issue were presented.

The law and order sentiment is a growing sentiment. There is nothing fantastic about it. Many men who drink would vote to abolish the American saloon because they regard it a lawless and dangerous institution.

This sentiment is rapidly gaining in strength and popularity, all over the country, and when it crystallizes, as it has in many places, the saloon is voted out, not for a year, but for years to come. It remains for Janesville to say what shall be done, if anything.

TAFT, LA FOLLETTE AND BRYAN

Here is a bit of choice literature from the pen of the editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean that will interest Wisconsin readers. It takes up the subject of Taft, La Follette and Bryan as follows:

"Mr. Bryan, in his Commoner, comments on the report that the president has consulted Senators Aldrich, Crane, Penrose and Carter with a view to getting more legislative work done by the senate. Mr. Bryan then asks:

"How does it happen that Mr. Taft's political conferences are held with such men as Aldrich, Penrose, Crane and Carter? If he is the reformer that some of our republican friends would have it appear, why do we never hear that he is in consultation with Senator La Follette?"

"We are really surprised that Mr. Bryan should ask this question. Mr. Bryan is not usually so lacking in political perspicacity. If Mr. Bryan after dishing off this paragraph, had stopped to think for just a single second we are confident that it would have gone into the waste basket instead of into the composing room.

"Mr. Bryan apparently never thought of what Mr. Taft wanted when he conferred with Senators Aldrich, Penrose, Crane and Carter. Instead of inviting Senator La Follette to the White House for consultation, if he hadn't wanted what he did want—if he had wanted what he didn't want—Mr. Taft very naturally and properly would have called in Senator La Follette to do it or get it.

"For instance, if Mr. Taft had wanted a Chautauque lecture explaining the policies of his administration, or a speech or a magazine article, the name of the Hon. H. M. La Follette would have suggested itself at once and probably before any other. But it so happened that what Mr. Taft wanted was none of these things. It was to get something done in the senate. So he went for senators who, whatever their failings may be, are at least in the habit of getting things done in the senate, because they also have the habit of hard work and steady attention to business there.

"The Hon. R. M. La Follette is all kinds of a reformer, but when it comes to getting things done in the senate he is workaholic. And the workaholic senator is just the man that Mr. Taft cannot consult when he wants things done."

HE MEANT WELL

While the nine days' talk relative to the dismissal of Mr. Pinchot from the government service is passing still there is much comment on the subject and the Milwaukee Sentinel makes the following explanation of his conduct that is sarcastic, yet kindly, in spirit:

"Mr. Pinchot's proceedings in the recently disclosed case of those 200

budding forest rangers are, if correctly reported, delightfully characteristic of Clifford.

"It appears that these young gentlemen were assigned to various universities for a course in elementary forestry; figuring meanwhile on the government payroll as foresters and receiving traveling expenses out of the bureau appropriation.

"All of this on Mr. Pinchot's own motion.

"It did not occur to him to consult Secretary Wilson about it, to inquire into the legality of this unauthorized use of public money, or to ask himself whether training for should not proceed, rather than follow, appointment to salaried government jobs. He liked the idea, and just went ahead, and hung the expense.

"How like Clifford's generous impulsiveness! his friends will say. So it was, so it was.

"We are not questioning Mr. Pinchot's motives in this proceeding, which doubtless were, on usual, quite immediate. But Mr. Pinchot's methods do seem to have been a bit haphazard and disregardful of law and regularity.

"Well, well, an independently rich young man with a hobby may be pardoned for mistaking public work for a personal enterprise. But suppose every departmental bureaucrat and subaltern were to insist on having his own way, and be hanged to the rules and regulations, so long as he meant well, on the Pinchot principle?"

SWEDEN'S TROUBLES

An Exchange in commenting upon the existing conditions in Sweden says that patriarchy, rather than patriarchy, is the social condition from which Sweden has just emerged. It would be extremely difficult to find a parallel in modern history for the effects produced by the great strike of last year. That is because it would be equally difficult to find a country so curiously unprepared—socially—for modern economic evolution. The adjustment was bound to come by something akin to revolutionary methods. For if the country at large was unprepared the Swedish masses had reached a degree of social maturity which made that extraordinary assertion by a general strike possible; at least, maturity alone can adequately account for that achievement. Three weeks ago the Swedish Parliament reassembled for the first time since that epochal clash and the issues raised but not decided in the struggle are now to be debated on the floor of the riksdag.

There are two basic factors in Sweden's revolutionary advance; first, the country has exceedingly few cities, a condition which holds the great majority of the people back in the country, against the modern industrial tendency; second, the extreme scarcity of coal coupled with, or rather offset by, the great abundance of water power supplied by innumerable waterfalls which lend a peculiar unique circumstance that industry in Sweden, outside the few cities, is to all practical purposes a branch of agriculture. The use of electricity found industrial concerns ready for work without the process of formation characteristic of all other countries; the aristocracy and plutocracy suddenly found themselves in the double role of landowners with a numerous tenantry and of owners of water power with prospective industries and an adequate labor supply from that same tenantry.

It was inevitable that the time-honored patriarchal relation between owner and tenant should be transferred to the new plane of manufacturer and mill operative, but it was fatal; where no outside influence could shake the control of the landowner over his tenant, the rising waters of modern social tendencies broke like a tidal wave into the relation of these same people as mill owner and mill hand. That tidal wave was the strike. And this social message came to the rural masses from the urban labor whose leaders found the country folks exceedingly well prepared and receptive for the strict discipline of the modern labor organization, thanks to the control exercised over them for many generations by the landowners. Once perceived in this the operation of the same factor which is responsible for the phenomenal growth of socialism in Germany—only that German patriarchy reached, in Sweden, the superlative degree of patriarchy, and so became responsible for an adjustment which called not for evolutionary but for quasi-revolutionary methods. If the great strike has completely reversed the social physiognomy of Sweden it is now for parliament to sanction and legally establish the new order. At this juncture comes electoral reform as passed by the late parliament, with universal suffrage and the proportional vote that will give the minority an adequate representation. Clearly, the prospects are excellent for the rise of a new democratic force in northern Europe.

Perhaps Mr. Nease may make the public understand something about the management of the Wisconsin State Fair by telling a few facts as to how the president of the fair, Mr. McKerron, uses the state funds to exploit his own stock, but it is doubtful if he can accomplish anything in the way of a real reform.

The house committee on agriculture ought to learn a great deal from the agricultural economists appearing before it. One witness testified that "the exchanges do not tend to steady prices of cotton in any way."

Wisdom from them that speak without knowledge.

There is a political storm gathering. Just where it will break is hard to say, but lots of lightning rods are in the air waiting for something in the electrical line to happen. If the storm does break it will mean cyclonic changes will be in vogue.

A good many naval officers have owed their advancement to the manner in which they won some hot engagement, but Rear Admiral Denny will owe his promotion to the manner in which he disposed of a cold one.

It seems up to the state legislature to reform itself before it undertakes any reformation of Wall street.

It seems up to the state legislature to reform itself before it undertakes any reformation of Wall street.

There is a political storm gathering. Just where it will break is hard to say, but lots of lightning rods are in the air waiting for something in the electrical line to happen. If the storm does break it will mean cyclonic changes will be in vogue.

these same people as mill owner and mill hand. That tidal wave was the strike. And this social message came to the rural masses from the urban labor whose leaders found the country folks exceedingly well prepared and receptive for the strict discipline of the modern labor organization, thanks to the control exercised over them for many generations by the landowners. Once perceived in this the operation of the same factor which is responsible for the phenomenal growth of socialism in Germany—only that German patriarchy reached, in Sweden, the superlative degree of patriarchy, and so became responsible for an adjustment which called not for evolutionary but for quasi-revolutionary methods. If the great strike has completely reversed the social physiognomy of Sweden it is now for parliament to sanction and legally establish the new order. At this juncture comes electoral reform as passed by the late parliament, with universal suffrage and the proportional vote that will give the minority an adequate representation. Clearly, the prospects are excellent for the rise of a new democratic force in northern Europe.

Perhaps Mr. Nease may make the public understand something about the management of the Wisconsin State Fair by telling a few facts as to how the president of the fair, Mr. McKerron, uses the state funds to exploit his own stock, but it is doubtful if he can accomplish anything in the way of a real reform.

The house committee on agriculture ought to learn a great deal from the agricultural economists appearing before it. One witness testified that "the exchanges do not tend to steady prices of cotton in any way."

AFTER TEN YEARS

A lady who lived in another city came to me the other day. "You did some work for me ten years ago," she said. "It was satisfactory that I have come back to you rather than experiment with a stranger."

Others have been coming to me for years from neighboring towns because my work is satisfactory.

CHANGES IN SALARY LIST MAY BE MADE

At Regular Meeting of Common Council Tonight—South Main Street Paving and R. B. & J. Amendment.

Salaries for city officers may be readjusted at the first meeting of the common council in February and at that meeting only. Unless some change is made the present ordinance fixing the remunerations remains in force. There has been some discussion of the advisability of increasing the amounts paid to the city attorney and some of the other officers but any radical changes at this time are deemed unlikely by those who appear to be in a position to know.

Plans and specifications for the South Main street paving will be submitted this evening and an order may be introduced calling for the installation of center avenue which lies between the Pleasant street and Western avenue intersections.

The Rockford, Beloit & Delavan Lake Interurban railroad has caused the proposed amendment to its franchise, extending the right to bring the cars into the city on the east side of the river, to be published the required number of times but the affidavit of publication had not been filed with the city clerk this forenoon. It is possible that this step may be taken tonight and that the proposed measure will come up for consideration.

Reports from the city treasurer, board of education, and municipal court will be forthcoming and the usual routine business will demand attention.

INTERMEDIATES WON BY A CLOSE SCORE

Locals Defeated Rockford Boy's Club Basketball Team Saturday by Two Points.

Janesville Intermediates and the basketball team from the Rockford boy's club had a very close and exciting game of basketball Saturday afternoon and the outcome was in doubt until the last few minutes of play, when Koch dropped the ball into the basket and won the game for the locals by a 42 to 40 score. The game was fast from the start but the Intermediates had a little better of it in the first half with a score of 22 to 12 in their favor. In the second half, however, Rockford made a spurt and by an exhibition of brilliant and spectacular playing, tied the lower city five and secured a lead on them. Brown threw a basket and tied the score again and Koch brought in the winning points.

JURY IN BLENASH CASE DETERMINED TO DISAGREE

Appealed to the Court Three Times for a Discharge But Judge Filled Urged Strongly for a Verdict.

The jury which acquitted Herman Blenash and his son, George, of the charge of assault and battery on Harry Gardner, at a late hour Thursday evening, made three hasty efforts to "close the sponge" and agree to discharge, but Judge Field used all the persuasive powers permitted him to hold them to the task until a verdict should be reached. They eventually returned a partial verdict, acquitting one of the parties and agreeing to disagree with reference to the other, but this, of course, was not permitted.

ANTI-SALOON FORCES
PLANNING CAMPAIGNS

Wave of enthusiasm. Results have been obtained that were not dreamed possible five years ago. Discrediting the statement made in many quarters that the present movement is simply a great wave of enthusiasm and will soon lose its force, the speakers challenged the opposition to show a single instance where a moral reform has receded.

One of the Founders
Tracing the course of the temperance movement from its inception in this country, Mr. Humphrey, looking to go into details, emphasized certain epochs notably the earliest protest against the liquor traffic made by Benjamin Rush, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, who published facts regarding the physiological effects of alcohol upon the human system and was regarded by his contemporaries as a fanatic. Next came "Pillsbury" Clark's Temperance Society in 1808, whose members signed a pledge to abstain from drink except on certain occasions, which included half a dozen holidays and as many more events of purely local interest. In 1826 Lyman Beecher, who worked assiduously and whose six sermons on the liquor trade are still classics, created quite a stir, but he is in common with Benjamin Rush and "Pillsbury" Clark was ahead of his time. However, after each of his waves, and contrary to the statement made as to the back wash, public sentiment never returned to so low a level as it was at the time of Benjamin Rush.

Early Organization
With the organization known as the "Five Drunkards," who journeyed through the country converting other drunks, it was thought that the death knell of the liquor trade had been sounded. Although the consumption of intoxicants was cut in half and many drunkards converted, the movement failed, for while the older drunkards were being saved the new ones were busy turning out a new crop. It was then seen that no progress could be made by converting the finished product, but that the attack must be centered on the soldier instead of the buyer. At this time the first laws were passed prohibiting or restricting the sale of intoxicants.

In the Thirties
The latter thirties showed the liquor habit to be on the gain or perhaps, since public sentiment had become aroused, it had simply become more noticeable. Dr. Thomas Goodrich, who embodied in a book the result of his researches in public records, described the unusual number of deaths due to brain fever, which today would be classed as delirium tremens. In the latter forties and early fifties great havoc was wrought in the ranks of the liquor brigade by the action of fifteen states in outlawing the traffic. In 1855 the state of Wisconsin turned prohibition, but the bill was vetoed by the governor and was never enforced.

In the Fifties
After this movement the prohibition wave stopped and this is a point made by the liquor men who claim that the present so-called wave will also recede. But the "wave" of the fifties did not recede solely from the indifference of the people but simply because it was side-tracked by an issue that could not be denied, namely, the slavery question. Had it not been for this, the liquor question would have been solved for all time, but as it happened, while the boys in blue were at the front fighting for union, the liquor interests were busy at Washington, intruding their position and making it doubly hard for their foes to dislodge them. Then again many soldiers became addicted to drink and after the war the consumption per capita rose from seven or eight to twenty-three gallons.

Leading Organizations
Leaving at this point the movement itself, Mr. Humphrey turned his attention to the forces that have in the past and are at present taking an important part in the work. Among the foremost are the Good Templars. There is at present hardly a man who is giving all his time to the cause of temperance, who did not begin as a Good Templar. Among the other twenty-five or thirty orders the W. C. T. U. stands among the foremost, in a state such as Wisconsin, where every eighth citizen is foreign born and every eighth a foreign born German. The work of the W. C. T. U. in educating the children is highly important for the older people are hard to convert while the children can be taught to avoid the saloon and when they reach manhood cast their votes and influence against the liquor traffic. The work of the children is shown best by two elections in North Carolina. In 1881 prohibition was voted down by a majority of 65,000, but in 1905 the majority in favor was 41,500. What was the cause? The W. C. T. U. had educated the children and the children had grown up.

The Prohibition Party
Another important force in the cause of temperance is the Prohibition party. There has been much criticism directed against the party leaders and they have shown a tendency to belittle the methods used by other bodies working for the same object but in spite of somewhat strained relations the speaker asserted that there would be no quarrel, for it takes two to make a quarrel and the Anti-Saloon League had not the slightest intention of becoming the second party. It is natural that men such as have affiliated themselves with the national party and who have sacrificed and talked ceaselessly for one object, cannot see that their object can be accomplished in any other way but their own, but temperance workers are more interested in solving the problem than in disputing about the best method for use. But until the Anti-Saloon League can be shown a better plan than their's, a plan that will not more than 20,000 saloons out of business in less than two years, it will stick to the present organization. It bids them all Godspeed if only they present a united front to the liquor interests.

The Present Movement
The present movement, as exemplified by the Anti-Saloon League is the result of the seed sowing of a century. The league does not claim the credit of arousing the present widespread public sentiment, but simply claims to be the instrument placed in the hands of the people for the purpose of expressing their determination of ousting the saloon. The ground has been prepared, the seed sown and now the league comes forward with leaders and practical methods for expressing the will of the people.

Gives Description
At this point a short description was given of the birth, growth and organization of the Anti-Saloon League. It was begun through the efforts of one man, Howard Russell, who sacrificed everything to put his theory into operation. From a single beginning it has grown until now 500 people are employed continuously in the work. Three hundred and fifty speakers are using the cause of temperance before many congregations every Sunday morning and evening; more than sixty million booklets and pamphlets on temperance were distributed during the past year. The results of this work speak for themselves. The league does not claim the credit for arousing public feeling, but it has gotten the temperance forces together and furnished capable leaders and business methods.

Many Have Failed
Most of the temperance movements in the past have failed because of lack of financial support. The work has been financed at the start, but later the subscriptions have fallen off and the work allowed to lag. Under the present organization, although the income is small, it has sufficed to keep a few men everlastingly at work. This stick-to-itiveness has produced results. For seven sessions of the legislature in Ohio the league fought and unsuccessfully to gain a foothold, but at last a start was made and now 67 out of 88 counties were on a dry basis. Twenty out of 31 Indiana counties were made dry by concentrating every force on one thing and then hammering away at it without a stop. In the past two years 20,000 saloons have been closed, which, if each had a thirty-foot front, would be enough to line both sides of a street from Milwaukee to a point twenty miles west of Janesville.

This is not the work of a few long-haired men and short-haired women, but the expression of the people's will.

Gave Figures
After giving a few figures with regard to the success of the crusade in the states of Kentucky and South Carolina, the latter of which have only three times as many saloons as the city of Janesville, the speaker described the efforts that have been made to check the movement. How the brewers and distillers appealed to the farmers, asserting that they would lose the proceeds of their barley crops but when the farmers found that only sixty-four out of one hundred of their crop was used by the liquor manufacturers they laughed at the argument. The saloon forces have appealed to the laboring and business men, stating that if the saloons were voted out, grass would grow in the city's streets and business and manufacturing lag. To show the absurdity of this claim, Mr. Humphrey cited two cities as an example, Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and Xenia, Ohio, and asserted that in both towns, conditions both in business and manufacturing have improved since the saloons were closed. The business men, usually the last to support the anti-saloon project, are the most enthusiastic after it has been tried.

Appeal to Sympathies
According to the speaker the latest move of the liquor interests is to appeal to the sympathies of their enemies in behalf of the thousands of hardworkers, brewery-workers and others employed in kindred trades who will be thrown out of employment when the liquor traffic is wiped out. This plea was shown, however, to be ineffective, for in no case can it be proven that the workers have been forced to starve for lack of employment. Except in a few cases, the brewery employees are unskilled laborers and find employment elsewhere. The makers of furniture, the drivers can find work instead of beer or barley, while the saloon-keeper can find honest work instead of remaining parties on the nation and city.

Turning from the more general aspects of the movement, the speaker showed that the anti-saloon crusade had reached Wisconsin, and that a multitude of Germans, who can see no harm in a glass of beer, are still ignorant that nationally the citizen may be "apple of his eye." When it is seen that also out of ten boys at the state reformatory at Green Bay are there because of crimes that can be laid directly to the influence of liquor and the saloon and that ninety-eight out of a hundred of the maternity cases brought up before Judge Tarrant of

A GOOD THING
When It Comes Along Don't Let It Get Away From You.

"I really feel that it is hardly possible to say too much in favor of Grape-Nuts as a health food," writes a Chicago woman.

"For 8 or 10 years I had suffered from indigestion and chronic constipation, caused by the continued use of coffee and rich, heavy, greasy foods. My ailments made my life so wretched that I was eager to try anything that held out a promise of help. And that is how I happened to buy a package of Grape-Nuts food last spring.

"That ended my experiments. For in Grape-Nuts I found exactly what I wanted and needed. From the day I began to use it I noticed an improvement and in a very few weeks I found my health completely restored.

"My digestive apparatus now works perfectly and my chronic constipation has been entirely relieved. I have gained in weight materially, and life is a very pleasant thing to me so long as I use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day. I have found by experiment that it leaves it off for a few days my health suffers.

"A physician in our town has great success in treating stomach troubles, and the secret of it is that he puts his patients on Grape-Nuts food—it always brings back the power of digestion.

"There's a Reason."
Read "The Road to Wellville" in pks.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Milwaukee are the results of frequent saloons, wine rooms and saloon dance halls, the justice of this attitude can be seen.

Tour of State.
"Throughout my tour of the state," said Mr. Humphrey, "I have found that in many places, the fear is expressed that 'we cannot win.' This fear is ridiculous. There is nothing to lose. The question can be brought up again and again and every defeat will strengthen the opposition and weaken the saloon forces. Voters will begin to think and the result will be that many who have let the question go by default will be aroused and cast their ballots for a 'dry' town and in the end only ten per cent of the voters to bring the question up and every time it is brought up, the people will become stronger. Every time the saloon forces are compelled to fight they will become weaker. The fight belongs to Janesville and it is for the voters to say whether or not they want them. In many places, the saloon forces have been forced to import 'ten-day-men' to swing the election in their favor. This may be effective once or twice but in the long run it will fail. We are even now bringing up the question in Milwaukee, but in the hope that we will win out, in order to keep these 'ten-day-men' at home. We are bringing up the question in hundreds of places throughout the country and we hope Janesville will get in line."

Two Issues.
"There are at present two great issues before the United Temperance workers of the state of Wisconsin. One of them is the matter of forcing a vote in every place possible, and the second is to bring about the adoption of a county option law. We now have local option and county option will simply mean the enlarging of the unit. If the county option bill is passed and a county goes dry, it will mean that the enforcement of the law is in the hands of the sheriff and the district attorney and if they refuse to enforce the law, the governor of the state can step in. Under the present system, the mayor of the city can almost set at naught the will of the people.

Delegation Divided.
"I am not here to offer to cast my ballot for a delegation that will stand firmly in favor of a county option bill and ask that the question of a 'dry' vote be brought up as soon as possible before the voters of this city. At present our representatives are divided. I will not say, it is not my part to say how they stand, but you can easily find out."

Pleads for Funds.
In conclusion, Mr. Humphrey gave some idea of the expense incurred by the league in its work and emphasized the assertion that if the saloon is to be wiped out, it will be the church's influence that will act as the most potent force.

CARP SIMPLY FINE
IF COOKED RIGHT

German Carp Can Be Made Into a Most Tempting Dish.

The German carp is hated by local fishermen, yet it has warm friends just the same. Those who claim that it is a "fish of the bottom" and that it feeds on the bottom of the lake and river like a hog does a meadow, thus destroying all spawn, but says a fisherman, carp is good to eat if properly cooked. It all depends on the cooking. Few people in this country know how to cook any kind of fish.

"How do I cook that fish? Why, bake it. First skin the fish and scrape the fat off its back. Then make incisions around the fins and pull them out. Patted out, you understand, so that you draw most of the bones out with the fins. Then stuff the fish with a couple of stalks of celery, green ends and all, and an apple, an onion, a piece of bacon and sprinkle a little pepper in to hurry the union of the flavors. No salt! Why of course not! You had soaked the fish in salt water an hour or so after skinning it.

"Then grease a pan by frying a little bacon in it and place the fish there with a couple of strips of bacon on its upper side and bake it with ground pepper, crumbs and corn meal. Bake the upper side to a doughnut brown, and turn it over and serve the under side the same way."

Speaking of fish, their habits are strange in winter. They don't liberate during the cold weather like the bear and the raccoon and the ground squirrel and some other animals, but they do hunt a hole in winter. A fish of this kind of weather will hunt about the deepest water it can find in stream or lake and wriggle into a hole under some log or ledge of rock. If the fish is just large enough to admit the fish's body, so much the better. It can suspend the perpetual motion of its fins and tail and rest in proper position in its retreat.

Fishermen who know the habits of fish will cut a hole in the ice near some log or rock and place the fish in the water and lay down the fish in its retreat. But of course this is against the law. By this method more fish are wounded than are killed and brought to the surface. Now, a wounded fish, be the wound over so slight, will die in a few days. Fish do not stand abuse readily.

SIX CORNERS, Feb. 11.—The social and dinner which was held with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Aldrich last Thursday was well attended and was one of more than usual interest. A complete supper was in store for Mrs. W. H. Newton, it being her anniversary birthday and as pleasant remembrance of the occasion Mr. Gidney, in behalf of the A. S. L., in a few well-chosen words, presented her with a handsome silver meat-fork. The next church dinner will be served with Mr. and Mrs. James Clark Thursday, Feb. 24. A large attendance is desired. Miss Lois Lind, who has been spending several months in Pennsylvania, is visiting her sister, Sara, at the home of W. C. Aldrich, and from there will go to her home in Portland, Oregon.

EVANSVILLE MAKES A FORMAL PROTEST

Says Janesville Did Not Play Game Feb. 4 According to Rules.

The Janesville high school team may be compelled to go to Evansville and play the Evansville team if it wants to get into the Sixth annual Wisconsin high school basketball tournament to be held under the auspices of the Lawrence college athletic association on March 31, and April 1 and 2.
So far the Janesville high school basketball team has one of the best records of any high school team in the state, not having lost a game, but a protest has been filed against it with the Lawrence authorities by E. A. Potter, student manager of the Evansville team, over a game Evansville played in Janesville on Feb. 1.
In his protest Manager Potter says: "Janesville failed to notify us at all as to their official, then when we arrived to play they insisted on their official refereeing our half of the game. They would not play unless we submitted to the above. At last we gave in. Then they brought out their coach for a referee, which, we considered a breach of the rules, to allow their own coach, Mr. Theo. Knudson, to referee the game. They will not give us a return game on our floor."

Just what action will be taken on the protest is not as yet known. Coach Mark Cullis of Lawrence, will of course take the matter up with the faculty manager of each team before anything definite is decided, but on the face of the protest unless there was a previous arrangement and agreement as to the officials it is not believed here that the protest will be allowed.
However, should Evansville play the rest of its schedule without a defeat, the two teams will undoubtedly be ordered to meet again before either is chosen for a place in the tournament.

BRYAN FAVORS COUNTY OPTION.

Declares Political Parties Should Be Independent of Liquor Interests.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—In a statement made public here, W. J. Bryan declares himself in favor of county option in Nebraska, and says it is time for political parties to declare themselves independent of the liquor interests. Mr. Bryan says county option is both fair and logical and insists that the government has the undoubted right to regulate the liquor traffic in any manner it sees fit. After extended argument in favor of the principle of county option, the statement concludes:

"The Democratic party cannot afford to act as the mouthpiece of the liquor interests. It can have nothing in common with the selfish, mercenary, and conscienceless crusade that the liquor interests have organized against the home and the state, against private virtue and public morals."

GIRL'S BODY FOUND ON BEACH.

Two Men Are Sought in Connection with Her Death.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 14.—With her bath-room frozen to her flesh, the body of handsome 18-year old Jane Adams of this city was found lying on the beach by a trolley crew two miles below the city. The girl disappeared mysteriously on the night of February 4 after attending a dance on the million-dollar pier in company with W. M. Seyler, a married man.

Seyler disappeared last Monday. There is a deep cavity over the girl's left eye, apparently made with a blunt instrument. The police have sent out a call for the arrest of William Seyler and his brother Arvis, both of whom cannot be found.

NEGRO REGIMENT IS HIT AGAIN.

Body Notorious at Brownsville in Trouble in Oregon.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 14.—The Tenth United States Infantry (colored), the regiment discharged with out honor by President Roosevelt because of the shooting up of Brownsville, Tex., is again in trouble, though few if any of the former men remain to share in this situation.

The regiment is stationed at Fort Lawton, near here. Last Friday night Mrs. C. E. Alameda, a white woman, was attacked by a negro. She says the man was a soldier.

Suspicion was directed to the negro regiment and the regiment will be made to parade before Mrs. Alameda, who will be asked to point out her assailant.

Diplomat's Courtesy.

An envoy now representing us abroad was once asked to dine by the king of the Belgians. The king had particular reasons for wishing to be civil to the United States and its representative. He accordingly, when the ladies had retired, got up, and, going to the American envoy, sat down beside him and handed him a cigar. The minister said: "No, I thank you," and taking one from his pocket proceeded to light it.

FIRE WAS AVERTED
BY NARROW MARGIN

Green County Nearly Lost Its County Farm Building.
(Special to the Gazette)
Monroe, Wis., Feb. 14.—A fire was narrowly averted at the county farm when the roof on the main building caught fire, supposedly from a spark from the chimney around which the blaze was centered. Quick action on the part of the employees of the institution saved the building from being damaged to any extent. The fire was discovered by Robert Grey, a patient, who was in the horse barn at the time and happened to see it. He immediately notified Supt. Whitcomb. A hose was attached from a water-pipe close by and the blaze quickly quenched. Aside from a hole about five feet square, slight damage was done.

The "Cardinal" basketball team was defeated at Waterville by the normal team by a score of 27 to 25, in a game played in the normal gymnasium. The local team was handicapped by lack of floor space, as the "Cardinal" floor is considerably smaller than what the normal team are accustomed to. The game was very exciting and the star player of the game was made by Dordick of the home team, who sent the ball through the basket while lying on his back in the center of the floor.

The Monroe high school girls' team captured honors from the DeWitt high school girls at DeWitt in a score of 34 to 20. Miss Trella Holcomb, who subbed for Hazel Hawthorne, did such splendid work that she was awarded an "M"—an honor conferred by the high school.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, February 14, 1870.—Jottings.—At the regular meeting of the Common Council Saturday evening R. K. Lee, City Engineer, offered his resignation which was accepted, and the council elected Edward Rucker, City Engineer.

A communication was presented by the President of the Board of Education, asking that a committee be appointed from the Common Council to act in conjunction with the Board of Education, in relation to fixing the amount necessary to be raised for the purpose of erecting a new school house, and for grading the grounds around the same building. A motion was made that the committee on schools act with the Board of Education in the capacity requested by Mr. L. F. Patton, President. An amendment was offered by Mr. Rolston to the effect that the committee be appointed by the Mayor. Messrs. Clark, Burnham, Millmore and Rolston were appointed such committees.

It will be necessary for Mr. Comstock to supply the south in his rink with back. It's altogether too hard work for some young men to furnish support for the young ladies by their side, and it's too cruel to make them do it.

Mr. J. W. Cox, of Oshkosh, has challenged Mr. Frank L. Smith, of this city, to a skating match for the championship of Wisconsin, and his challenge has been accepted. The trial is to come off at the rink on the 23d inst.

While crossing the river on the ice above the upper dam last evening, Mr. D. R. Stont broke in where the water was about 20 feet deep and went under. Fortunately he rose to the surface directly at the spot where the ice broke, and his head came above the water, and clutching the ice with his hands, after a vigorous struggle, he succeeded in getting out. It was a narrow call indeed.

A pleasing novelty in the way of skating exhibitions was that given at the rink Saturday evening by John Alden and Robert Norris, aged about ten and thirteen years. They went through the program in a manner which would do credit to older and more experienced skaters. Our professionalists will have to look to their laurels if these youngsters continue to improve as they grow older.

STEAMER LIMA LOST; 51 DROWN, 205 SAVED

Liner Goes on Rocks—Eighty-Eight Persons Left on Board to Perish.

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 14.—The steamer Lima of the Pacific Navigation Company is probably a total loss on one of the islands of Humboldt Passage of the Straits of Magellan. The Chilean protected cruiser Minie Zenteno has been dispatched at top speed with the hope of rescuing those still on board the stranded ship.

The chief pilot and 50 passengers were drowned.

The British steamer Strathairn, which has arrived at Ancon, has on board 188 men and women and 17 of the crew of the Lima. She reports that the steamer went ashore in a storm on February 5. The steamer's official report having left 88 persons aboard the Lima, their rescue being impossible. They had no drinking water, the tanks having burst.

The stranded steamer Lima is a British vessel, owned in Liverpool and plying between that port and the ports of South America.

DRAGS MANGLED LEGS A MILE.

Telegrapher Maimed by Train Crawling in Torture—Prevents Wreck.

Mankato, Minn., Feb. 14.—Kudolph Elmqvist, an 18-year-old telegraph operator, with his legs mangled and a mile to his station and sounded a warning to Mankato which saved probably a hundred lives.

In trying to board a caboose, Elmqvist slipped and fell beneath the wheels. One foot was badly mangled and he suffered other injuries.

When the train crew saw he had failed to get aboard, the train was stopped and backed up. Elmqvist saw the train backing up the track. The north bound Twin City passenger on the Milwaukee was almost due, and the track was supposed to be clear. Suffering excruciating pain, he dragged himself over the snow back to the office, got the door open, and wired to the Great Western operator in this city the following message:

"My foot is cut off and No. 271 is coming back to pick me up. She will have to have help against 142 which is due at Mankato in a few minutes."

Then he fainted and fell across the desk. When the freight train arrived the crew put the boy on board and brought him to this city.

MADRIZ FOES AIM AT CORINTO.

Nicaraguan Rebels Believed Planning a Crucial Attack.

Panama City, Feb. 14.—Information has been obtained which warrants the belief that the Nicaraguan insurgents' plan of campaign is this: To harry the front of the Madriz troops by the making frequent attacks, while the main revolutionist army in flying columns makes a forced march north of the Cordilleras, screening the movement with cavalry.

The intention is to surprise the small garrison at Corinto, capture the custom-house there and throw up intrenchments. If the revolutionists can seize and hold that custom-house they will be collecting the customs revenues on both the east and west coasts of Nicaragua, as they already have the revenues from the eastern ports. Then they need only await the slow stratagem of the Madriz government, through lack of money to carry on the war.

New York, Feb. 14.—Five thousand makers of women's straw hats are planning to go on strike. They demand better wages, hours which will permit them occasional recreation and clean and airy lofts that will not offer especial attractions to the tuberculosis germ.

They declare that they now work 11 and 12 hours a day, half a day on Sunday and earn a total that never gets beyond eight dollars a week. But, more than that, they ask that they be treated with ordinary fairness. They tell tales of foremen who threaten to kick girls out of the factory for little defects of work.

Deland, Pa., Feb. 14.—Irvin Hantchett, a 16-year-old boy, was arrested charged with the murder of Mary Toder at Glenwood. The girl was stabbed in 65 places, being literally cut to pieces.

That the girl's assailant had other motives than murder is believed from the condition of her clothing.

As soon as it was known that Hantchett had been arrested a crowd collected and lynching was talked of. He was spirited away in an automobile.

WALTHAM WATCHES

The Authentic American Watch

There was a time when the term "American Watch" was one of contempt at home and abroad. To-day Waltham Watches are the standard pocket time piece from Christiania to Cape Town, from Melbourne to New York.

Percy used them in discovering the North Pole and the whole world pays respect and good will to their accuracy and honesty.

Beginning with the exposition of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association held in Boston in 1856, and up to the present time Waltham Watches, wherever exhibited, have taken the first prize and highest award at all the national and international expositions, including that at Seattle in 1909.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Will not be responsible for any debts incurred by wife after this date. Chas. M. Husky.

Real Meaning of "Aftermath."

"Aftermath" is a persistently ill-used word. Early July is the time of the "mow"; that is, the first mowing of the meadows. The short grass—with a sufficiency of rain—will grow again, and later will come the "second mow" or "aftermath."
